

Do not get so concerned with making a living that you forget to make a life.

Describe a person professionally or personally who you know or have known who kept a great balance between their personal and professional life:

---

---

---

What were/are this person's priorities? Give an example:

---

---

---

What are two specific things you could do to improve your life balance?

---

---

---