

Be more concerned with - loving than being loved, giving than receiving, being a friend than having a friend.

Do you agree with this statement? If so how would you explain it?

What would motivate somebody to approach life this way?

Give an example of a famous person who embraced this mentality as their basic approach. Would you say they were successful in their life? If so or not...why?
