

Never try for a laugh at another's expense. Try to laugh with others and never at them.

What does this statement mean to you?

How would you define another's expense as opposed to good natured teasing? Where do you draw the line? How would you teach it?

What impact would making this idea a habit have on decreasing bullying?
