

There is a wonderful, almost mystical, law of nature that says three of the things we want most - happiness, freedom, and peace of mind - are always attained when we give them to others.

What does this statement mean to you?

How could you apply this idea to your everyday life?

Who could you share this idea with and have it be a positive influence on changing the way they prioritize what is truly important in their life?
