

Parenting and Leadership

What are the qualities of a good parent that a good leader should also have?

What if any are qualities that a good parent should have that a good leader would not need to have?

What if any are qualities that a good leader should have that a parent would not need to have? How would you apply your responses to these questions to improve your life?
