

"A Loss is Valuable if You Do 2 Things With It: Learn From It and Move On"

What does this statement mean to you? Does it have value, or do you think it is just hype?
Defend your opinion with a specific example.
Delend your opinion with a specific example.
How would you implement your view in a company you owned? Be specific. What behaviors would prevent this approach from being a reality?