

Politeness and Kindness Creates Competitive Goodness

What does the idea: Politeness and Kindness Creates Competitive Goodness mean to you?

What does the idea: "Show not yourself glad at the misfortune of another, though he were your enemy." Mean to you? Does it make sense? Why?

What does the idea: "Speak no evil of the absent, for it is unjust." Mean to you? Does it make sense? Why?
