

Although it may not be possible to determine what happens to you, you should control how you react and respond.

What does this statement mean to you?

---

---

---

What are some examples in parts of your life where you controlled your response to adversity or not?

---

---

---

Who would you share this advice with? Why?

---

---

---