

When we are out of sympathy with the young, then our work in this world is over.

What if any value or meaning does this statement have?

---

---

---

Why would young people need more patience from others than older folks?

---

---

---

Describe somebody you know who embodies this attitude?

---

---

---

---