

“Stubbornness we deprecate, Firmness we condone, The former is our neighbor's trait, the latter is our own.” – John Wooden

What does this quote from Coach Wooden mean to you?

How specifically could you apply it in everyday life? Give a specific example.

How would you explain this idea to a young person? What actions could you take to model it?
