

Character, kindness and thoughtfulness toward other people, and an unselfish attitude of service to others are the qualities which make a person.

What does the idea that: “Character, kindness and thoughtfulness toward other people, and an unselfish attitude of service to others are the qualities which make a person.” mean to you?

---

---

---

Describe somebody you know or have known who embodies these qualities.

---

---

---

How did their or does their life impact your behavior and thinking? What are the differences if any between your behaviors and thinking?

---

---

---